School Ethos: 'Nurturing children in a broadly based Christian framework'

All our children attending our school are listened to, cared for and educated in ways that will benefit them as individuals. We nurture the children to respect one another, celebrate their diversity and learn to understand their differences.

We encourage children to become independent from an early age. We promote curiosity with the use of open questioning. We support creativity through a balanced curriculum which ensures that everyone has something to offer our school community. Learning is cross curricular ensuring links help consolidate understanding. We have high expectations in all areas and for all pupils.

As a group we learn together, through praise and positive feedback. As adults we model positive approaches and develop decision making through democracy. Issues raised are discussed on an individual, group and whole school basis.

We are a team who challenge, motivate and inspire learning for life.
